Abstract

5

The invention relates to the detection of oxidation of carbon-containing fibers or fiber bundles embedded in a nonconductive or semiconducting ceramic matrix in composites wherein use is made of the eddy current method.